

Our NEW titanclass delivers mobile, timely and relevant information

Christopher Hunt
Managing Director,
Class Action

I thought that it was about time we put pen to paper again and let you know what we're up to and where we are going.

The big news is that Time Traveler has a new name: titanclass. To us this name implies strength, leadership and quality. We see there being various classes of software solutions out there in the world with titanclass defining the highest class. We have a great deal of pride in what we produce and feel sure that you'll agree our new name suits our suite of products well.

Next we have defined our mission around titanclass to deliver information that is mobile, relevant and timely to you. In today's information rich world it is easy to become overloaded; to the point where important information does not reach you. Our goal is to continue ensuring that our software is intuitive and delivers information only when you expect it.

The new titanclass brand is now available at our Download Center. Of note is the renaming of the individual products in the suite e.g. Time Place is now known as World, Time Travel is now known as Itineraries and so on. titanclass products are named in a descriptive manner so that they can easily be recognized in your device's launcher screen. Other features of the titanclass release are described in full detail at our website. Additionally Bill and Ben discuss a clever new function of titanclass later in this news letter.

MyTimeTraveler will continue to fly under the same name and will sport some new features in 2004.

One new feature is the result of a long and lasting relationship with one of the top travel reservation system providers in the world. We will be able to receive itineraries from many leading travel agencies. This means that if you arrange your flights via one of these travel agents then you will be able to receive them into titanclass. No more data entry for you!

Next year will also see us deliver titanclass on other hardware platforms. We will be releasing titanclass for PCs and Macs. We have already developed a significant portion of titanclass World (Time Place 4) for the PC and Mac. If you or your company would like to get involved and help shape 'World's' design then we would very much like to hear from you. The focus of titanclass for the PC and Mac will be on the enterprise customer and on information mapping.

Thank you for your continued support. Your feedback over time has really shaped what we have become. All of us here at Class Action hope you have had a really great Christmas and we wish you success for the New Year.

Bill and Ben the titanclass Men

"Hi Bill."

"Hi Ben."

"Long time, no-see," says Ben.

"Well Ben, I just took a week off so that I could drive out and see my Aunt Mary. She lives in Chicago and I drove there."

"Good one Bill."

"While I was out there I discovered a great new feature of Titan Class World," says Bill.

"Oh really Bill, well you know how I always love to find out about Titan Class's great features."

"I do Ben and this is why I mentioned it. When I was in Chicago, I went to send some emails from my hand-held device and Titan Class World automatically told me where I was even though I had no itinerary entered."

"Wow, that's great Bill."

"I know and not only that it asked me if I wanted to update to the time zone I was in, which I did of course, and viola, it was all automatically updated for me."

"But how does titanclass World do that Bill - can it read your mind?"

"Well Ben, apparently titanclass World wakes up in the background when my handheld establishes an internet connection. It connects to something known as the 'Geobytes Server'. This server can determine where you are given the internet address your service provider issues on connecting. There is no personal information transmitted; in fact, there's less information transmitted than when browsing the web from your PC. So, in essence that is how it works. I didn't have to configure anything for this - it just worked for me."

"Gee Bill, those titanclass products keep getting better and better, don't they," says Ben.

"They sure do Ben," replies Bill.

titanclass Tip #1

You can change time zones on your Palm OS 4 or later device by using the Prefs application supplied with your device. Prior to Palm OS 4 the time zone could only be changed by World (Time Place).

Time zone changes made via Prefs will be instantly reflected by the titanclass products. titanclass is one of the few time products that integrates seamlessly with the Palm OS.

titanclass Tip #2

World 4 (Time Place 4) provides a Time Calculator when you tap on the two clocks in the bottom left of its screen. The Time Calculator is useful for determining when it is a good time to call one or more persons in different time zones.

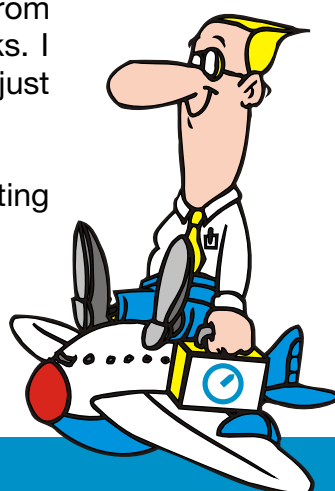

You'll see multi-colored locations appear with each location signaling whether it is a good (green), OK (amber) or poor (red) time to call.

For devices with jog-dials or rocker-keys (like a little joystick), you can move the day/night curve until the sunlit area appears over all of the parties you wish to call. You can also use your stylus to move the day/night curve.

When traveling let your family, friends and colleagues know where you are: <http://www.mytimetraveler.com/>
